

Computing Task – Ongoing for the whole term until May 21st

Your task is to write a weekly blog about what you are doing during Lockdown.

A blog is like an on-line diary about what you have been doing and you can make it as unique and personal to you as you want. This is your opportunity to write or say how you are finding things.

You might want to include pictures or drawings as well as writing about what you have been doing.

You could tell me what you are enjoying, what you are missing or how you are feeling.

Log on to Purple Mash and find the My Blog section in tools. A detailed set of instructions will come up about how to do this. You will see there is a class blog section, where I have written something and there is a pupil section. You can read what I have written, but need to create your own blog in the pupil section.

Explore, have fun and see what you can do. I am sure you can make your blog much more exciting than mine.
