Today you are going to think very carefully about these BIG questions:

Is peace more valuable than money?

Is thinking about bad actions as bad as acting out these thoughts?

Discuss these questions with parents. You need to think about different situations.

Peace can mean peace of mind or living in an area that is not at war (internal peace/external peace).

Think of different scenarios about bad thoughts (which everyone has at times). Someone could feel jealous and want to hide a sports award that another member of the family has won etc...there are lots of bad thoughts that can stem from jealousy/greed/anger etc.. even fear.

Ask parents to talk about the selfish actions of the panic-buyers just before lockdown and which emotions/thoughts led to these actions.

You really need someone to discuss this with and to bounce ideas about different possible scenarios here.

Write down your thoughts with reasoning (so you will need to use because....)

These responses are your personal opinion so good sentence starters might be:

I believe that..... I feel..... Some people may say that...

It is human nature to think....

You may also be using words such as:

although however on the other hand.. despite this...
