

Tuesday 23rd June 2020

Good Morning Oaks (from Ms. Pickard again).

Your Pandora's Box descriptions really brought the scene to life in my mind's eye so well done everyone. It was a tricky task but the results were well worth the effort!

We will start our new literacy sequence today which is POETRY (my absolute favourite!)

You will be finding out about SPARTANS in Ancient Greece and possibly choosing my suggested title for your poem at the end of the sequence: I AM SPARTAN. FEAR MY NAME.

A very special lady sadly died last week who was a significant figure in World War Two and beyond.... Your history lesson will be devoted to her today.

Here are your activities for today (you can do them in any order).

PE (any type of physical activity – go for a walk or do a Morning Mile run)

Reading for 20 minutes – THE MOST IMPORTANT!

English

In your immersion you will begin your research into the famous SPARTANS of Ancient Greece.

Maths

Y6 will continue multiplying decimals via White Rose today, whilst y5 will use mental maths skills and logic to solve some mathematical puzzles.

History

Listen to the sound-file to follow instructions to research and present your findings about a significant figure in our modern history as we pause our focus on Ancient Greece and return to that time period next week.
