Good Morning Oaks (from Ms. Pickard again).

I hope that you managed to form a plan in your poetry lesson yesterday and that you are ready to write a masterpiece today! Remember a poem doesn't even have to rhyme but it does need to be set out in verse form with clear lines and rhythm.

Some of the pupils in class have just written another short letter to the old folk at the care home in school, commenting on the end of lockdown on the horizon so if you have a short letter to send to me this week please pass it on. Remember the same rules as last time: Dear... and don't sign your name. Some of the children in class wrote about our Greek topic coming to an end and their favourite moments/lessons about Ancient Greece.

Here are your activities for today (you can do them in any order).

PE (or another type of physical activity –you could try Cosmic Yoga <https://www.youtube.com/user/CosmicKidsYoga?safe=true>)

Reading for 20 minutes – THE MOST IMPORTANT!

English

This is it! Time to let the rhythm flow and create your poems. I am so excited to read them.

Maths

Year 5 have some word problems to solve today plus a consecutive numbers investigation.

Year 6 will digest some revision notes and then continue with a section of an Arithmetic paper

History

Years 5 and 6, can you rise to the challenge? It is a tricky one! You need to read instructions carefully to display timeline sequences from vastly different periods in history, charting the conquering of countries and expansion of empires as three different leaders seemed to want to take over the world.

Years 3 and 4, your goal is to create interesting questions about soldiers and army life in Ancient Greece and then to be able to find the answers to the questions that you have created.
