

Tuesday 9th June IMMERSION leading towards a final emotive letter.

In our new writing sequence, we will concentrate on the story of Daedalus and Icarus (which Mrs. Edgeworth posted on home learning as a link to Geography on Monday- read this again).

Remember legends can be slightly different in interpretation (as some of you have already pointed out).

First of all watch this video which has an ending where Icarus survives:

Search for The boy who flew too high by bedtime stories collection

Now watch a home-made version of the legend where Icarus does not survive:

Search for The story of Icarus by Paul McCurdy

For your immersion task can you create your own scene from the story as you have just seen in the previous video. I feel that OAKS could make much better backgrounds for this task. You just need to draw figures and tape to a pencil or a stick and using the same method as the video , re-create a scene or the whole story.

You can choose the ending that you prefer: survival or capture!
